Title IX & Transgender Students: How Student Affairs Professionals Can Stay Compliant

Thursday, August 30 ~ 1:00-2:30pm (Eastern)

Once the live date has passed, this training will be available on demand.

Overview

Research (Cantor, 2015; Garvey & Rankin, 2015; James, 2016) finds that trans students report more hostile campus environments than other students. The revocation of the Dear Colleague Letter in support of trans students' rights under Title IX and efforts by states to pass laws requiring people to use the public restrooms that correspond to the sex on their birth certificate have made trans students feel even more marginalized and isolated. This webinar will provide specific strategies that student affairs professionals can use to create supportive campus environments for trans students. Topics covered will include sexual harassment, misgendering and misnaming, single-sex activities, and access to housing, restrooms, shower facilities, and locker rooms.

Objectives:

- Learn about the experiences of trans college students today and the current cultural, legal, and political landscape for trans people
- Learn ways in which colleges can make trans-affirming changes, particularly in the areas of housing, restrooms & locker rooms; fraternities & sororities; intramural sports; records & documents; and procedures for addressing sexual assault & harassment
- Learn the specific language to create trans-inclusive policies at your institution
- Receive resources on meeting the needs of trans college students

Who Should Attend?

- 2-year & 4-year institutions
- Student Services/Affairs
- Advising & Counseling
- Retention Specialist
- Diversity Directors/Specialists
- Campus Safety
- Student Code of Conduct Officers
- Any educator interested in learning more about Title IX and transgender support & compliance

Speaker(s)

Genny Beemyn / Director of the Stonewall Center

University of Massachusetts, Amherst

“The current presidential administration’s revocation of the “Dear Colleague Letter on Transgender Students” further oppresses one of the most oppressed groups on college campuses and represents a complete reversal of federal efforts over the past few years to ensure the basic civil rights of trans students. But colleges can still legally encode the rights that the administration is no longer defending, and it is time that institutions step up and support their trans students.”

Genny Beemyn is a leading expert on the experiences of trans people in the United States, particularly the lives of trans students, and on the development of trans-inclusive college policies and practices. They are the director of the Stonewall Center at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst and the Trans Policy Clearinghouse coordinator for Campus Pride (www.campuspride.org/tpc).

Genny has written or edited ten books/journal issues, including The Lives of Transgender People (with Sue Rankin; Columbia University Press, 2011) and A Queer Capital: A History of Gay Life in Washington, D.C. (Routledge, 2014). They are currently working on a book entitled Campus Queer: The Experiences and Needs of LGBTQ+ College Students (Johns Hopkins University Press) and an anthology entitled Outside the Gender Box: Trans People in Higher Education (SUNY Press). They are an editorial board member and trans article reviewer for the Journal of LGBT Youth, the Journal of Bisexuality, and the Journal of Homosexuality. Genny has a Ph.D. in African American Studies and Master’s degrees in African American Studies, American Studies, and Higher Education Administration.
